The following is the first of a series of articles on tax assessments, reassessments, The Board of Review, Tribunals and other matters related to the levying of taxes within the City of Romulus.

The city of Romulus has requested proposals for the appraisal of all real property in the city for the city-wide reassessment as mandated by the city charter.

The city charter states that, "All properties in the City of Romulus, personal and/or real, shall be reassessed at least once every eight years."

The last reassessment was in 1978 which means the project must begin in the spring of 1985 and be completed and ready for the 1986 assessment roll.

The main purpose and goal of a reassessment is to return the uniformity in property values that is lost over a long period of years so that everyone pays only their fair share of property taxes. The main function of the Assessor's Office is not to raise assessments but to expand the city's tax base by finding new assessable property while maintaining the existing assessments.

In any city the size of Romulus, a decay in the uniformity of property values occurs within four to five years of a reassessment and with the growing complexities of assessment laws and practices it requires the use of computers to halt this decay and maintain good quality and equitable assessments year after year. Volumes of information must be processed, verified and kept track of. With normal staffing, a manual assessment of the city would be time consuming and expensive.

"I don't necessarily see any across the board increase in taxes," said Mayor Beverly McAnally. "The reassessment will be pretty much an updating of our records. We will no doubt see increases in some areas and decreases in others which are due to the varying or changing economic climates in different sections of the city."

According to City Assessor Matthew Raftary the marketability of various areas is the key to reassessment. "A neighborhood, for instance, that in the past has experienced an increase in sales and realized an upswing in property values may therefore see an increase in property taxes. "However," continues Raftary, "The current marketability of that same neighborhood could possibly be not as high as it was, say two years ago, so therefore see a decrease in assessed values."

Normal criteria for a reassessment is to do a walkby of the majority of residential properties with the purpose of updating and/or correcting the existing property record cards. In some cases an interview with the homeowner or an inspection of the property may be necessary. A complete reinspection of commercial and industrial properties is required because these businesses display tendencies to expand or reduce their facilities with the economy.

As proposals are received from the various companies requesting consideration to do the reassessment, meetings will take place to discuss and finalize requirements, completion dates, payment schedules and procedures to be followed. After that process has been completed the selection will be narrowed down to two or three firms and a recommendation taken before City Council for approval.

We are inviting readers to send any questions they may have regarding these articles. We also welcome any questions regarding the functions of any Department within the City.

Finger printing

The Romulus Police Department, in cooperation with the Wayne County Sheriff's Patrol, is offering a free finger printing program for all children in the city.

The program's purpose is to provide permanent records to parents in the event that a child should turn up missing. Primarily aimed at preschoolers although open to others, a child will be finger printed and the card will be retained by the parent.

"The reason for the parent to keep the card rather than the police department," explained Romulus Police Inspector John Lewis, "is to protect the privacy of the individual while providing valuable assistance to authorities should something happen to the child."

The finger printing will take place according to the following schedule — Oct. 29, Hayti and Cory schools, beginning at 9:30 a.m.; Oct. 30, Wick and Barth schools, beginning at 9:30 a.m.; Nov. 5, Head Start and St. Aloysius, starting at 8:30 a.m.; Nov. 6, Beacon School starting at 9 a.m.; and Hale Creek and Merriman schools on Nov. 7, beginning at 9 a.m.

Permission slips will be provided by the schools, all children not accompanied by a parent must have a slip signed by their parent before finger printing can take place.

Ain't no hay!

There will be a "Fall Frolic" in Romulus this Friday, a hay ride and ox roast fundraiser for Mayor Beverly McAnally.

For a $10 donation, there will be, in addition to the hay ride and food, beer, music and dancing.

The frolicking will begin at 6 p.m. and end at 1 a.m., and will be held at the Romulus Racoon Hunter's Club, located at 37593 Wick Road.

Macrame, knitting and crocheting, square dancing, sewing, floral arranging, and quilting are some of the classes offered. To participate in the programs, the cost is 50 cents for Romulus residents and $1 for non-residents.

Other activities include day trips, such as the one planned to Autoworld Nov. 13 for $15 per person. Also, extended trips are offered, like Las Vegas for five days, four nights at $339.90 (double occupancy).

Also, out-reach activities like bowling and volleyball are held at other buildings around Romulus.

If you are interested in joining either a bowling or volleyball team, contact Marilyn Masters at 941-0666 ext. 257.

Legal Aide for persons over 60 years will be held at the Romulus Senior Center building Oct. 25 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. And a nutritionally balanced lunch is served daily at 11:30 a.m.

Outstanding Zoller selected as BPW 'Woman of the Year'

In conjunction with the observance of National Business Women's Week, the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club annually selects one of its members for the honor of "Woman of the Year."

At the Oct. 1 dinner meeting at FaithUnited Methodist Church, the group turned the spotlight on a member of four years' standing, and it's current president, Sophie Zoller, of Belleville.

Since joining BPW in 1980, Zoller has set out to know all there is to know about the organization at all levels — local, district, state, national and international.

She has traveled many, many miles, by car, plane, bus and even horse-drawn vehicles throughout the country and Canada to pursue her BPW goals. She has served in almost every executive capacity in the Belleville Club. She enrolled in an Individual Development Program and represented District XIII at a State Convention IDP speak-off.

Presently, she is serving in the highest club office as president, and is not afraid to try another way to accomplish a task. She attempts to streamline the club's performances by innovative means.

Zoller was born in Posen, Michigan, and graduated from Posen High School. She is one of seven children. She attended Northeastern School of Commerce in Bay City, and has attended classes at Madonna College, Wayne County Community College and Detroit College of Business.

Zoller is an employee of the University of Michigan as an academic secretary in the School of Engineering.

She is deeply devoted to her family, her church, and is highly visible in her community. Frying chicken for a family reunion is no big thing to her. Neither is baking and selling strawberry pies for St. Anthony's, nor is the hauling of a gang of kids to a 4-H fair.

She is acting treasurer for the Veterans of Foreign Wars and is also great at making floats for parades.

Zoller goes about singing "I'm Just Wild About Harry". Harry is her husband and they have one daughter, Pamela. Pam attends Michigan State University, and is also a student member of BPW.

Zoller is a lady who copes with working in the city, driving the freeways, and enjoys the rural setting of their home on Haggerty Road in Belleville.

"We thank Sophie, for opening her beautiful home for many BPW functions, and must include thanks to her nephew, Ted Smolinski, who has been involved in making floats for the Christmas parade and Strawberry Festival parade in Belleville for BPW" a club spokesman said.

"Congratulations, Sophie, and your Club challenges you to pursue a state office, as you have insight and vitality to strengthen BPW, and your participation can make a difference."

Lockhart attends conference

Kelley Lockhart, a senior at Huron High School in New Boston, was recently selected to attend the 1984 Girls' State Program, held at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant this summer.

More than 500 girls attended the program.

Lockhart was sponsored by the American Legion's Women's Auxiliary.

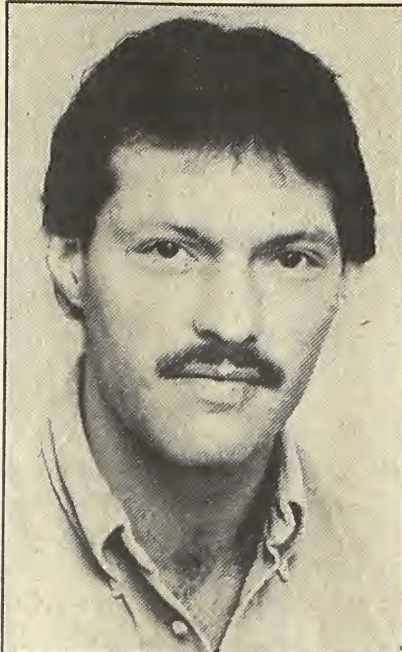

"I didn't know what to expect when I first arrived on campus," Lockhart said of the program. "It was far more than I ever could have imagined. Girls' State is a great learning experience."

"I would like to thank the Women's Auxiliary for sponsoring me."

Lockhart plans to attend Central Michigan University following graduation to pursue studies in business education and French.

Angie Koper

Koper, Fancy join ANP management

The appointments of Angela Koper to the position of classified advertising manager and Steve Fancy to the post of production manager were announced this week by David J. Willett, president and publisher of The Associated Newspapers.

Koper, 26, formerly served as a phone room manager for a recreational development venture in northern Michigan. Most recently she was employed as a sales representative for a long distance telephone service.

A graduate of Redford High School, she attended the Lawrence Institute of Technology and has earned a real estate license. Koper and her husband, Kelly, reside in Ypsilanti and are sailing enthusiasts.

"Angie Koper brings to The Associated Newspapers both the knowledge of telemarketing management vital to our future success and an upbeat personality that will enable her to get the job done," Willett said. "I'm delighted that she has chosen to become a part of our management team."

Fancy, 25, literally grew up in the newspaper business as the son of Jim Fancy, publisher of The Spinal Column in Union Lake. He boasts 12 years of newspaper experience, including six years as production manager of The Spinal Column.

During his tenure the weekly newspaper earned numerous Michigan Press Association awards for use of graphics as well as top honors for general excellence. Fancy, who attended Oakland Community College, set up a typesetting and graphics shop while employed at The Spinal Column.

A resident of West Bloomfield, Fancy is single and enjoys water skiing.

"Steve Fancy has accepted the appointment as production manager of The Associated Newspapers," Willett noted, "and brings with him the knowledge, background, drive and ambition that will move us very quickly in the direction we have decided serves the best interests of The Associated Newspapers and its customers."

The Associated Newspapers publishes six weekly newspapers — The Wayne Eagle, Belleville Enterprise, Romulus Roman, Westland Eagle, Canton Eagle and Inkster Ledger Star.

Pt boaters reunion brings back wartime memories

Memories

For Joe Hass of Westland, attending a reunion of PT boaters in Houston, Texas, brought back a lot of memories about the two years he spent in the Navy during World War II. Hass served aboard a PT boat, the smallest, fastest and most heavily armed vessel of the Navy and the ones that logged more hours in actual enemy combat than any other Navy ship. Hass, owner of the Wayne Hobby Shop, has a model of a PT boat to remind of his time in combat, but his prized possession is the photo of one such boat he took in 1943. At the time he snapped the shutter, the picture taking was a court martial offense.

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

Joe Hass went all the way to Houston, Texas, for a reunion with his "mates", but the recent gathering wasn't with classmates, rather Navy veterans who served aboard PT boats during World War II.

It has been 40 years since Hass served on a PT boat, but the five-day reunion brought back a lot of memories about his time in the Pacific Theater of War and the camaraderie he developed with shipmates.

"The PT service was special," Hass said of the two-year stint in the Navy. "You developed an unique kind of camaraderie that has survived the decades since the war."

He enlisted in the Navy in 1942 at the tender age of 19. He had worked driving speed boats around Belle Isle. It was the closest thing to operating PT boats, and after placing fourth in his quartermaster course at the Great Lakes Naval School, he had his choice of duties.

PT boats, or patrol torpedo craft, measured 80 feet by 20 feet and had a crew of 16 men. Often called mosquito boats, the PT boats were the "splinter fleet" of the Navy because they were made completely of wood. They had seven guns, ranging from 50 caliber to 40 millimeter.

Hass, the owner of the Wayne Hobby Shop, saw action in New Guinea and the Philippines during the war, and was involved in the Battle of the Philippine Sea, in which the PT boat he was serving on engaged a Japanese naval cruiser "with negative results."

The PT boat made night patrols close to shorelines, and during his time aboard Hass admits he was "always scared."

"No one can prepare themselves for the first time you're shot at," he said. "I was always scared about what happened to us, but I got used to it. I didn't panic."

"Many times I'd wonder if I was going to get back alive. We operated pretty close to shore, and our biggest problem was with snipers."

Hass described his PT boat as a "charmed boat," a belief based on one incident in which an incendiary bullet punctured the boat's fuel tank, but didn't explode. His boat sank 16 barges and 1 1/2 planes (the hit was shared with another boat) during its time in action.

"Many times Zeroes would dive bomb us, and we'd wait until the last moment to move," Hass explained. "that's how maneuverable the boat was."

"They were fantastic boats ...

terrific boats. Their top speed was 40 knots — 45 miles per hour."

He had one close call while on a night patrol along the Atlantic seaboard near Cape Cod, when the PT boat he was on was cut in half. The incident occurred during heavy fog, and although what cut the boat in half was never really determined, it was believed that a German submarine may have been at fault, Hass explained.

Hass admits that he hardly knew anybody at the reunion, although he found one former PT boater who lives less than 2 1/2 miles from his Westland home and delivers milk to the Kresge Store in Wayne.

He's already making plans to attend the reunion that will be held in Boston next year, since a reconstructed, although inoperable, PT boat will be on display.

Hass also is looking for former PT boaters interested in attending a "bull session" that will be held on the eastside of Detroit Friday. Interested veterans can contact him at 721-0700.

Garden Club visits park

The Van Buren Garden Club met recently at the home of its president, Mrs. Walter Molik, for a short business meeting before going to Kensington Park, which is aglow with all the fall colors.

A naturalist spoke on common animals of the garden, using stuffed specimens as examples to see and touch, while explaining their habits and forages on the gardens of humans.

Moles, insectivorous mammals of subterranean habits, live altogether underground where they move about in summer through light topsoil (going deeper and sleeping in winter), searching for earthworms, grubs and buried insects. From time to time they come to the surface and throw out a quantity of excavated earth which create the molehills.

The body is long and narrow, the tail short, the forelimbs placed far forward so as to form effective digging implements which are armed with huge claws. The fur is gray, soft, fine and close. There is no external ear, the eye is minute and sunken, the nose is prolonged into a rooting snout, endowed with a keen sense of smell. The teeth are numerous and sharp.

Rabbits, closely related to the rodent, are classified in a separate order. Naturally gregarious, the wild rabbit lives in a burrow beneath the ground. Its food includes practically all vegetable matter. Domestic rabbits may be raised for fur or food.

Raccoon, a small American carnivore which resembles the bears in structure and descent, measures from 22 to 26 inches. The fur is long, soft and thick, and the pelt has commercial value. The animal is nocturnal and arboreal, rarely leaving the shelter of the trees during the day. Its nest is constructed in hollow trees, and it passes winter there in semihibernation.

Its diet is mice, frogs, crayfish, oysters, eggs and young birds. In summer the raccoon eats fruit and berries, and is especially fond of corn. A characteristic is washing the food. They like to dwell near a lake or stream.

Opossum is the only native American marsupial. This southern animal ranges as far north as central Michigan. It has an abdominal pouch in which it carries its young, and later the young

Falling down

With a cloud of dust and a hardy sigh of relief a section of an eye sore commonly known as the foundry, comes tumbling down due to the efforts of the Waldo Demolition Company. The site, which is located at the corner of Hunt and Goddard streets in Romulus, is being cleared so that construction can begin on a new U.S. Post Office. The new facility is due to open sometime in December.

WCCC campus holds open house

Interested in getting to know the Western Campus of Wayne County Community College?

If so, then don't miss the campus' first annual open house slated for Friday (Oct. 19).

The event, which will run from 3 to 8 p.m. at the college, located at 9555 Haggerty Road, Belleville, will feature hot air balloon rides, tours of the facility, informal workshops, entertainment and refreshments.

On-going demonstrations are scheduled in many of the laboratories: learn how to check your furnace before the winter cold hits; make a ceramic pot; "sign on" to the college computer system; or simply browse the exhibits and displays.

"The Western Campus of WCCC is committed to excellence in education for western Wayne County," says newly appointed Associate Provost Milan Chonich. "I encourage the community to join us for an afternoon of fun and discovery." Western Campus representatives will be available to answer any questions concerning the college and its programs. On-site child care will also be provided.

In operation since 1981, the Western Campus offers vocational, academic and community services/continuing education programs designed to meet the career and educational needs of residents of western Wayne County.

Royal family

The Sheridan family of Wayne was among the interested spectators as the Tigers downed the Royals recently. The Sheridans, however, were pulling for Royals and their son, Kansas City rightfielder Pat Sheridan. Among his supporters are dad Art (left), mom Nancy and sister Annette. Also in the fan club are sisters Constance and Lori.

They'd rather be in K.C.

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Managing Editor

Nancy and Art Sheridan had hoped to spend last weekend in Kansas City, enjoying the World Series.

Their son, Pat, the right-fielder for the Royals, had promised to fly them as well as other family members into Kansas City for the fall classic. Choice seats were reserved ... the Tigers simply refused to cooperate, eliminating the Royals on Friday night in the playoffs. To worsen matters, Pat went hitless.

"It would have been her (Annette's) first plane ride," said Mrs. Sheridan Monday, referring to the Sheridans' 17-year-old daughter (Constance and Lori, the Sheridans' other daughters, also had their sights set on Kansas City).

"We went down to see Patrick play twice in Kansas City this year," she added, "It's a 13-hour drive. We kept thinking we were going to the series

... maybe next year."

The Sheridans are a closely knit family which have lived on Taft Street in Wayne for nearly 30 years. They have watched Pat grow up through the Little League program, then onto Franklin Junior High and Wayne Memorial, where he starred in football, basketball and baseball.

'Patrick called me at 3 a.m. to tell me when they clinched the division.'

From there he attended Eastern Michigan and was signed by the Royals in his junior year.

Following a stint in the minors, Pat made it to the big leagues and this season, his second with the Royals, he batted a respectable .283.

"Patrick called me at 3 a.m. to tell me when they clinched the division," the proud mother recalled. "He was in California so it was only midnight there but I already knew about it. I stayed up until 2 to hear the scores."

Pat, a lanky 6-foot-3 and 188 pounds, is a quiet, polite young man (he's 26) according to one friend.

"He was sleepy when he came to town two weeks ago," Mrs. Sheridan said. "The team had arrived at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn Thursday at 4:30 a.m. He came home for dinner Thursday and was tired."

"Patrick didn't seem at all surprised after the Tigers won on Friday. Right now he's in the process of building a home in Kansas City that should be finished in January."

Art, a physical education instructor at Henry Ford Community College, said his son intends to spend the winter in Wayne before heading out for spring training.

As for the World Series ... "We're rooting for the Tigers now," Art declared.

A WEDDING MESSAGE FILLED WITH LOVE

Dear Letter Writer:
My good friends recently got married. I would like to send them a poem or letter or something to express to them how much I love them both and wish them the best in their future. It is a second marriage and they struggled hard with all the issues involved in making that kind of commitment. The female, "E", has two children under 17 and the male, "T's" children are all grown up. They will be living in "E's" house and within the next couple of years moving to Phoenix, Arizona. They are on their honeymoon now and I want a message waiting for them when they return.

Sincerely, VLE

Dear T and E:
Seldom in a lady's life
Does she have a chance to know
People like the two of you
That are the stars of their own show.
For the past few years I've known you two
In fact the very night you met
I've watched your love grow and bloom
Until finally it was set.
You went through many ups and downs
And lots of go arounds
But when your curtain fell at last

You had learned from your past
And you joined together October '84
To live and love forever more.
There is nothing like it since time began
The love between a Woman and a Man.
Protect it and build on it
Don't treat it lightly

Don't take it for granted
Not even slightly.
Show it to the world
To the people who love you
They're all over the place
Wherever you look
Your children, your friends,
All those who know you.
But most of all me
For in you both I see
What life's all about —

To touch with a smile
And love and affection and change others' lives to a brighter direction.

All my love, VLE

Handicapper protection

Bill would aim at false advertising

Senate Democratic Leader William Faust will introduce legislation to prohibit would-be entrepreneurs from promoting goods and services as the work of handicapped persons when in fact they are not.

The Westland Democrat said his proposal will outlaw what he considers to be the legal and moral violation of the rights of handicapped persons in Michigan.

"The craftsmanship and fine quality of work produced by handicapped persons is well-known throughout Michigan and the nation," Faust said. "Despite physical or mental limitations, these men and women are producing fine quality products that provide them with self-esteem and in many cases, enough financial support to afford them a nice standard of living.

"It is unfortunate that they are being subjected to unfair competition from would-be entrepreneurs promoting and selling goods as the work of handicappers for their own personal gain," Faust explained. "We must step in and protect their interests just as we have done for consumers and businesses when they have been duped in similar advertising scams."

The Faust proposal would prohibit individual unless 75 percent of the labor to make that product was provided by a handicapped person.

Not only would the proposal prohibit false advertising, it would also prohibit the sale of products for the alleged financial benefit of handicapped persons unless the seller disclosed the name of the charitable organization that would benefit from the sale, the amount of money that would be used for charitable purposes, the percentage of the purchase price that would be given to a charitable organization and the amount of money that may be deducted as a charitable contribution under federal law.

Persons found guilty of violating this act would be subject to a fine of not more than $1,000 for the first offense and not more than $5,000 for any subsequent violation.

"Passage of this legislation would be a major triumph for handicapped persons in this state," Faust concluded. "It would also benefit consumers who all too often take the advertisers word for gospel."

The proposal is expected to be introduced when the Senate reconvenes this month.

W-W faces key decision

In December the Wayne-Westland Board of Education will have to tackle the job of filling a vacancy among its ranks. For a board as divided as Wayne-Westland, the task will not be an easy one, and in light of the controversy that has surfaced with the announcement of the forthcoming resignation of Board Vice-President James LeDuc, the art of compromise may be lost entirely.

LeDuc, a Presbyterian minister, will be vacating his seat on the board in December, less than six months after being elected to a four-year term.

Rumors had circulated during the annual school election that LeDuc would be leaving shortly thereafter, and his announcement several weeks ago has added credence to the statements he had denied on many occasions last June.

The only person who can address the issue of whether or not the job opportunity was viable at the time of the election is LeDuc, who has maintained that he was one of 200 applicants for the co-pastorship in Baytown, Texas, at the time of the election. The claims now that information to the contrary was circulating within his congregation at that time hints of sour grapes.

If such information had been available at the time of the election it should have been made public, not left to rumors and innuendos. To challenge LeDuc's honesty now is a moot issue.

Those challenges and a push to have another unsuccessful candidate in the election appointed to fill the vacancy until next year are only clouding the issue at hand.

Who will fill that vacancy can be determined by the Board of Education. Considering how the board is split, an agreement on an appointee may not come easily. And if the board members cannot agree, the final decision ultimately may rest with the Intermediate School District.

In approximately four months, the Wayne-Westland Schools will annex a portion of the Cherry Hill School District. Voters in that district gave their overwhelming support of the annexation, and as welcoming gesture, it may behoove the school board to delay a quick decision on the vacancy to consider a member of the Cherry Hill board.

Wayne-Westland has seen too much turmoil in the past few years. In light of the Cherry Hill decision, now is not the time to stir up the pot of discontent and get it boiling again.

As we see it, it is not a case of who did or did not tell the truth last June, but who will or will not serve until next June on the Board of Education. Rather than point fingers and call names, school board members and residents should be looking for a nominee who will be acceptable to both sides in the board's disputes.

To promote an unsuccessful candidate for the position isn't being fair to the other unsuccessful candidate in the election.

Now is not the time to argue. Now is the time to find person to serve on the board before that decision is taken away from the district's elected officials.

We urge the school board to take their time in filling this soon-to-be vacancy. Maybe in going slowly, the board and residents may find the catalyst for working together rather than arguing among themselves.

S-BAM and the 1/4" hole

You won't find it in the dictionary, but then, in today's world of acronyms symbolizing anything from a corporation to a ladies' aid society, that is really nothing unusual.

S-BAM (pronounced S-BAM, as in Sam) is the acronym for the Small Business Association of Michigan.

Membership in the group is made up of small business owners and operators like myself. They have little desire to convene in stuffy rooms participating in meetings featuring speeches, financial reports, political and economic discussions or debates regarding business issues of the day. Then why on earth are they part of such a group? Let alone, like me, serve on the board of directors?

Wally Bronner, the famous Frankenmuth Christmas decoration entrepreneur was a fellow board member with S-BAM (which, by the way, was IBA, the Independent Business Association of Michigan until recently). Wally used to speak of the thousands of quarter-inch drills sold every year to people who didn't want them. "What they wanted," Wally would say with just the right pause for emphasis, "were quarter-inch holes."

So it is that my comrades and I made a trek to Lansing last week to the S-BAM meeting. What our members want is change. We want a continuation of the growing recognition of the reality that began with the 1980 White House conference on the progress of small business.

That reality is that small businesses account for 40 percent of the gross national product each year. Statistics prove it.

Small business is the provider of jobs for today and tomorrow and small business holds the promise for tomorrow, yet they are overregulated and overtaxed by a government that was for too long unresponsive to their needs.

Mercifully, that is finally changing. Of the top 10 agenda items proposed at the conclusion of the 1980 White House Conference — nine are now reality.

Rhetoric, you say? What does this have to do with me you wonder? I suppose that depends on whether you're at all interested in the quarter-inch hole Wally talked about.

Michigan economy has, apparently, come through the worst period of economic downturn in my lifetime, and yet things still remain "soft." There's at least an ongoing emergence of the reality that the much-ballyhooed high tech is a factor, but the producer of jobs will be small businesses ... new small businesses.

That's the force that will provide the new jobs that will employ the youth entering the labor market for the first time, that's the entity that will employ the unemployed and the re-trained unemployed.

Jobs and the economy affect us all and it matters little whether you like it or enjoy thinking or talking about it. Quarter-inch drills aren't my favorite topic of conversation either.

America, and specifically Michigan, offer the opportunity many other locations on this planet only dream of. Some live in societies under a totalitarian government where they dare not even hope.

But here, anyone with the desire and a skill can start a business of their own. The risk is great — a frightening high margin of new businesses fail in the first five years ... and yet, those which manage to survive come to know the great reward of being a player and not just a spectator.

It is not for everyone. Many choose to work

Costly abatements

To the Editor:

Nearly every week there is a notice in the paper telling us of a company that would like the City to create a Commercial Redevelopment District for them, so that they may apply for and receive a 12 year tax abatement. The tax abatement is a powerful incentive for bringing new business to Romulus. Through it we got the Detroit Diesel plant, without it, such opportunities for insuring our community's future might pass us by.

On the other hand, let's look at Curis Big Boy's request for tax abatement on their restaurant addition. The parent company of Big Boy's is currently engaged in putting these same additions on all their restaurants throughout the Metro area. It is my opinion that whether or not they had received an abatement from Romulus, they would have gone ahead with the addition.

The 12 year tax abatement is a powerful bargaining chip to be used in negotiating with a company that may be considering coming to Romulus. It has been my experience in negotiating that one usually gives up something to get something. Only the foolish give away a bargaining chip to receive something that is already given.

Tax abatements cost me money, I have been told that the State picks up whatever revenue the schools lose, so that these abatements actually cost the City very little. However, I am painfully aware of the fact that I pay both State and school taxes. It doesn't matter whether the right pocket reimburses the left pocket, or if the money only comes out of the left pocket. Either way it still comes out of my pants.

I have seen companies make their presentations to the council and promise all sorts of things in one breath (mainly jobs for residents), while in the next breath, hedge that statement to the effect, "That is if we can find people in Romulus who are qualified." These abatements should not be automatically given for 12 years. A trial period of 3 or 4 years should be granted, with the Council monitoring, and then if the promises are fulfilled, the balance of 12 years could be granted.

I am not against these abatements per se, but they must be handed out with greater wisdom in the future.

While on the subject of tax abatements, why not establish Residential Development Districts for individuals or young marrieds. The City could grant them a 50 percent tax abatement for 12 years so they can build their first house. There is no reason to only give abatements to business. In this simple idea is a chance for Romulus to be in the forefront of an innovation that could really change our community for the better.

We have some very talented people on the Council and I am sure that with their effort and expertise a Residential Development District could easily be implemented. What a wonderful incentive this could be for our children to stay and build in Romulus!

Favors amendment

To the Editor:

As a backer of the Voter's Choice amendment, I am dismayed by reports in the press that the amendment would require a four-fifths vote of the Legislature or a vote of the people to raise taxes in the future and be an automatic cut in taxes. These statements aren't true.

Fields—Henry marry

White pew bows and candelabras accented with arrangements of white gladiolas, white mini mums and dusty rose carnations decorated the Bethany Bible Church of Belleville for the recent nuptials of Kimberly Fields of Belleville and Stephen Henry, also of Belleville.

An arrangement of white mini gladiolas, white mums and dusty rose carnations with a unity candle decorated the church altar table, while the two side altars had arrangements of white mini gladiolas, white mini mums and dusty rose carnations for the early evening ceremony, officiated by the Rev. John Losen and attended by 150 guests.

The music for the wedding was performed by Susan Stahl, with soloist Toni Simonds singing "Through the Eyes of Love" and "The Wedding Song." The bride and groom together sang "Our Love in Christ."

The bride is the daughter of David and Sandra Fields of Belleville, while the groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James Henry of Mobile, Ala.

The sheer long sleeves were accented with cuffs trimmed in Chantilly lace. The cathedral train was of cascading layers of embroidered Chantilly lace and crystal pleated ruffles.

A headpiece, accented with sequences of pearls, held her finger tip lace veil, and her bouquet was of miniature white carnations, with dusty rose carnations and baby's breath.

The bride asked her best friend, Susan Prohaska of Belleville, to serve as her maid of honor. She wore a floor-length polyester taffeta gown in a frost rose shade, with spaghetti straps, a princess cut bodice and A-line skirt. Her matching jacket had a Queen Anne ruffled collar with short puff-pleated sleeves. She wore a gardenia in her hair and carried a bouquet of miniature white daisies, miniature dusty rose carnations and baby's breath.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a silk organza and silk black satin off-the-shoulder style gown, handmade by Christine Haliburton, for the ceremony. A bridal netting, attached to a wide-brimmed hat, formed a veil train. Her bouquet was of white roses and peach carnations.

Driving costs decline in '84

Michiganians will spend $105

less to own and operate a 1984 car than they did in 1983, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

It costs Michigan motorists 25.2 cents per mile to operate their cars compared to 25.9 cents a mile a year ago.

Operating expenses for motorists who drive 15,000 miles annually will be $3,780 compared with $3,885 in 1983.

Operating expenses are detailed in the 1984 edition of the AAA pamphlet titled "Your Driving Costs." They are based on a 1984 Chevrolet, 6-cylinder (229 cubic inch) Impala 4-door sedan with standard accessories, automatic transmission, power steering, power disc brakes and radio, driven 15,000 miles per year and kept four years.

The 25.2 cents figure is broken into two categories: variable and fixed costs. Variable costs include gasoline (based on a price of $1.248 for unleaded), oil, maintenance and tires for a total of 8.3 cents per mile.

Fixed costs include insurance, depreciation, license fees and finance charges and total 16.9 cents per mile.

Insurance is based on a pleasure use category with the vehicle driven less than 10 miles to work and no youthful drivers on the policy.

The reduced driving costs for 1984 can be attributed to lower gasoline prices and a drop in automobile finance charges.

Auto Club members can obtain a copy of the driving costs pamphlet at any of the Auto Club's 54 statewide offices.

Coward's popular play featured at Hilberry

The Hilberry Repertory Theatre continues the 1984-85 season with Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," opening at 8 p.m. November 1.

In "Blithe Spirit," called "an improbable farce" by Coward, a successful writer and his wife are bedeviled by a playful spirit who is accidentally materialized by a bungling medium. Unfortunately, the ghost just happens to be the writer's first wife.

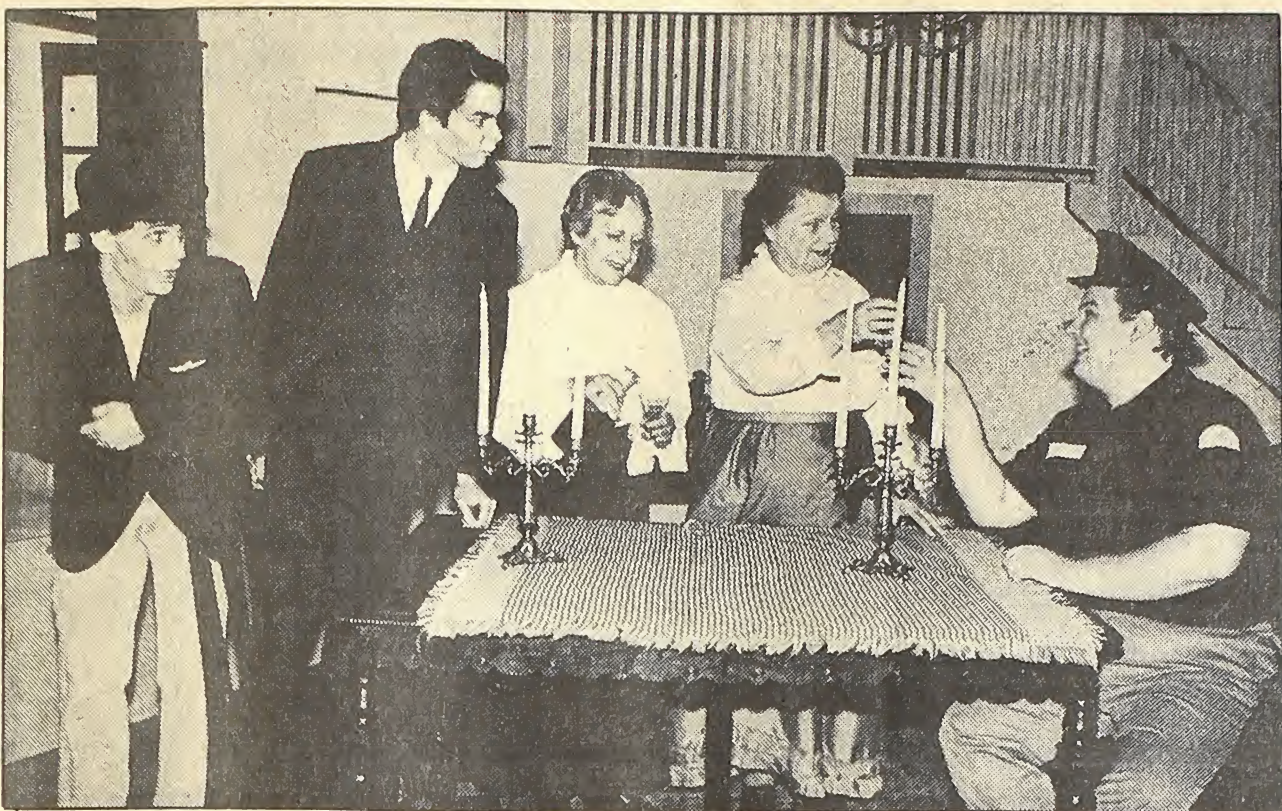

"Blithe Spirit" is Coward's most popular play. When it was first produced in 1941, it broke all London records, and toured extensively in England and the U.S. It was filmed in 1945, televised in 1956, and made into the musical "High Spirits" in 1964. Coward even wrote a ballet version of the play for his revue "Sigh No More" in 1945.

The cast, under the direction of Anthony Schmitt, includes: Jeff Dolan as the writer, Angela Yannon as the blithe spirit Elvira, Lynne Kadish as the second wife Ruth, and Jodi Cooper as the eccentric medium. Also in the cast are Melanie Metcalf and Jonathan Nichols.

Designers for "Blithe Spirit" are Jaye Beetem (scenery), Bobby Pearce (costumes), and Mark Allen Berg (lighting).

"Blithe Spirit" plays through January 19, in repertory with "Hamlet," "Appear and Show Cause," and, later, "Twelfth Night." For ticket and schedule information, contact the Wayne State University Theatre Box Office at 577-2972.

The Theatre is located at the corner of Cass and Hancock, Detroit. For group sales information, call 577-3010.

In addition to Chosen, the concert will highlight the talents of The Payne, New Generation Singers, The Graceways and the King's Messengers.

Formerly with The Graceways, Williams plays piano for Chosen, which travels full-time across the country. In 1983 he received the Medal of Merit from Congressman William Ford for his volunteer work in Westland. Williams is the son of Thomas and Mary Ward; brother of May Williams, and grandson of Esther Remmenga.
